The Angelica Conservation Club

The most regular meeting night in January 14, 1948. In being the first time that the club is now under its new name, "The Angelica Conservation Club." This meeting is very successful, but it is not the greatest. It comes on Wednesday January 14. The five chances to get together in 1948.

"Conservation" means to preserve, to save. The word representing that today is "green".

Here are the number of trees lost during the years of the U. S. American Revolutionary War lasting 67 months, deaths 4,244.

War of 1812, lasting 36 months, deaths 1,677.

Mexican War, lasting 35 months, deaths 1,732.

Civil War (undeclared), lasting 62 months, deaths 74,204.

Spanish American War, lasting 4 months, deaths 245.

World War I, lasting 19 months, deaths 35,210.

World War II, lasting 44 months, deaths 391,267.

Making a total of 485,426. This number doesn't include the crippled. The largest holiday program received in New York City was the $2,000,000 loss of no wood, all snow, winter blankets. No one in Allegany County was frozen.

In the State of Wisconsin, the law expects the farmers to wear coats, blankets showing half or more red.

SOLONS APPROVE SALARY CHANGES IN CLOSING SESSION

Following are highlights of the closing session of Allegany's Board of Supervisors.

Ernest Watson, Belmont, was named former member-at-large of the County Soil Conservation District. Contract for printing the 1947 Proceedings of the Board was voted awarded the Angelica Advocate on its bid of $3.40 per page.

Salaries fixed by the County Officers and "Compensation" Committee and adopted by the board, effective January 1, 1948, were: Executive secretary of the Workers' Compensation Committee, $1,700; clerk Board of Supervisors, $1,200; county sealer of weights and measures, $2,250; and district attorney, $2,700.

Cost-of-living adjustments to be paid for the year 1948, adopted by the board, were as follows: Clerk Board of Supervisors, $254; journal clerk, $205; commissioners of election and clerk to that board, $100; county treasurer, $500; account clerk-stenographer, treasurer of the law, $280; county clerk, $500; register of deeds, $500; county clerk's office, each, $200.

Under-sheriff, $300; salaried deputy, $200; turkey, $200; jail master, $200; jail cook, $200; county sealer of weights and measures, $220; district attorney, $250; janitor and cleaner, each, $200; county judge and surrogate, $500; clerk of

Firemen's Bazaar

Proceeding in the purchase of new uniforms the Fire Company will launch into a big program of fundraising and varied entertainment starting Tuesday night, January 27th and continuing the entire week winding up Saturday evening, January 31st.

The committee to charge the bazaar "all out" to provide entertainment in various forms such as singing, dancing, and other amusements. The committee is also planning a social affair with every young to old, with local talent providing varied programs such as A. E. Head, Bill Henry the singing main quartet, dancing, singing with plays, comedies, dialogues, and social remittances, street scenes, musical speeches and, well—what else?

There will be numerous entertainments, refreshments and social events that are sure to attract large crowds—where, did you say?

At the new Grange Hall with the entire building (the old Presbyterian Church) open to accommodate larger crowds than have ever been able to assemble in past years.

The firemen are drafting every member of the company into line of active duty toward doing their right and ask that "you" will mean the last week in this month for the night of old time fun for the grandpas and grandmas, mother and fathers, brothers and sisters, sons and daughters, nephews and nieces and you—even the "in-laws".

Better mark your calendar for the last five nights of the month, and make them all so busy with fun and frolic. Watch next week's paper.

MISS SHIRLEY LANE BECOMES BRIDE OF CONWAY BRITTON

Miss Shirley K. Lane, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lane of this village, became the bride of Mr. Conway M. Britton of Belmont, in a pretty home wedding Saturday afternoon last at 2:30.

The Rev. James Watson of the local Methodist Church performed the ceremony under an archway of pine and mistletoe. Miss Lane wore a white chrysanthemum and tulle dress decorated the Lane residence.

The bride, lovely in a street length dress of white wool, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a necklace and bracelet presents from the groom, and carried a bouquet of white roses and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Sheila Lane of Elmira was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of white wool, similar to the bride's, and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Jack Evans of Angelica, best man of the bridegroom, was the best man. The bride's mother was attired in a pearl grey dress, with wine accessories, and wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother chose a gold corsage and wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

A reception for fifty guests followed. The bride's going-away outfit was a dark suit, with black in memory of L. W. Messenger, who died December 8, 1947.

There is only a curtain between us, between the beyond and the here. They whom we call dead have not left us.

Say, they were never so near. Not dead, only parted. He has entered the heaven above. He has entered the matrix of the And there await the matrix of the Master.

He will finish his labor of love. Not dead, but beginning to live. In the wondrous life of the Christ, When the sunshine of love shall woo The weary to peace and love and sweet rest.

I cannot say, I will not say. That he is dead—He is just away. With submissive smile and wave of the hand.

He has entered into the better. And left us, thinking how very fair. He needs must be since he is there. And you dear folks, so fondly mourn For the welcome step and the glad return.

As the hand of his living on us dear. As the hand of here. Think of him as the same, I say. He is not dead, but just away. Nor is he away from the better part. Away from the eye but not the heart.

And he lingers near to soothe our pain. And he teaches that life and death are gain. And he waits on the bright eternal shore. For the hand clasp of loved ones once more.

In loving memory of one of the best and cleanest men, honest and true, we sure miss you and always will.

With love for him from his friends, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Harmon. Beautiful life is that whose span is God and man.

"Ski New York State"

Publication of a new guide, "Ski New York State," for winter sports is announced by Commissioner of Conservation of the Department of Environmental Conservation.

The guide, in the pocket-size edition, lists 100 ski resorts in the State. On the back cover of the book is a directory of ski areas and the latest information on the facilities, including length, drop, and description of lifts; number and facilities of ski lodges and other facilities; and information on train, bus, and plane travel. A complete and up-to-date ski sports chart shows where to go for ice skating, tobogganing, ice fishing and other winter activities. Copies of the guide may be obtained without charge from the Division of State Publicity, New York State Department of Conservation, 112 State Street, Albany.

Farmer Income Tax Returns Made Easier By Bulletin

Among the many aids given farmers by the Farm Bureau is assistance to understand how to make out an income tax return. Every farmer with an income of $100 or more in 1947 must struggle with a return. "Suggestions to Farmers on the 1947 Income Tax Return," is a helpful bulletin now on hand at the Farm Bureau office for distribution to persons affected.

for an interview. He managed to get into the room, address in the ring business and Mathers' name.

"See," says Mathers, "how about those days at the new 'Champion' and what about that gal and baby down the hall? Take go some place where we can talk."

"That's this party's showing down here."

"They went down to the hotel grill and found a table in the corner of the room."

"They, but we about Mathers. What kind of a guy is he?"

"Well, he's a kid, you kids about Mathers, too. I think he's a kid, and I'd like to tell their story. But I gotta tell it my way." Bill Mathers of Britain.

"Bill right, tell it."

"Well, it begins some two years ago." Bill begins. "We and Pete Miller is sitting in Pete's office gabbing about another mouth when he walks a cocky, good looking kid. He's got a letter for Pete from some guy down south. He walks up to Pete, ignores me, and says: 'You Pete Miller? This is for you.' Pete takes the letter, reads it and looks up at the kid.

Pete and Sally's big surprise was to come around tomorrow with his lightin' legs and he'll see what the kid's got. I go to the gym with them, and Pete sticks the kid in there with a kid warhorse named Batsala. The kid, considerin' he ain't been eatin' no good, does okay and Pete holds him.

"We get our first peek at Sally when Pete moves her and the kid over to Pete's hotel. Pete tells the kid to go to the gym a few days and for me to work with him."

"Well, as I says, we get our first peek at Sally and her kid's a cocky, good looking kid. I don't know what. Anyway, I go for Sally kid - don't get the wrong, mister, my countin' days is long gone - she's a love kid. Well, them two kids, sittin' regular again with Pete payin', bloom like a couple hot house flowers put out in the sun. Some Pete spots the kid in a four-round prelim at St. Nick's and the kid comes through with a quick layn. O'course he knocks over a bum, but we like the way he does it. "It ain't long before the kid's moved up to semi-finals and then kept watchin' for his glass.

"Well," he resumed, "the kid starts going around with a show gal. I talk to him.

"Listen, knot-care, he says, 'you're keepin' outta this.' He tells me a lot more about him and this show gal gettin' married after he wins the title and gives Sally the kid."

"NEXT day I tell Pete all and we head over for the gym where Pete's workin' out. Pete quotes him and all to get me the inside story."

"I go around to see Sally each day to see if she knows anything about his marriage business. I poke around kinda subtle like and then quit her if she's heard anything about Spot and this show gal. Well, she starts cryin' and I tell her a four-star dog. I don't know what to do and just stand there 'savin' 'there, there, like I heard a mother once with a cryin' baby. I don't do much good. Sally keeps cryin' and like. That kinda cryin' don't need no sound effects, it goes deep. Pretty soon she says she's goin' back home. And she does, leavin' a note for the punk."

"He goes around a couple days sour-pussed. I don't hear a word from Sally for weeks and I don't think the punk has neither, but Pete is goin' around with a wise look and I get a hunch he knows something. The kid has changed some. He ain't so cocky no more and he seldom goes out at night. One night, just before we're leavin' for the trainer camp where the kid's gonna get ready for the final 'Immolation' bout, I'm in his room helpin' him pack.

"It ain't long and the phone buzzes. The kid's near it and picks it up. He says, 'I ain't here,' and hangs up. Pretty soon comes a knock on the door and dummy me opens it. A dame is there. I figure it's the show gal and I'm right. She steps over to the kid. 'Honey,' she says, 'you ain't seen me lately?' The kid keeps on packin'. Then he says he ain't gonna see her no more.

"Then the fireworks begin. That dame gives him the trimmin's and when she's in high gear she heaves a water bottle at the kid's head and stalks out. He ducks and the bottle whams against the wall. During the ruckus I duck into a corner. I see mad dames work before."

"It's two or three days later when I see Pete at the camp. I tell him about the show and he looks at me kinda funny and says now's the time to tell him and maybe he'll all over to tell him about the dirt, but I tag it. I don't catch the house with Pete. The kid's restin' when me and Pete talk into the room. Pete says

He causes the sun to shine and the tides to ebb and flow. He causes the rain to fall and the winds to bear their messages. He holds the earth in His course. God is the maker of every good thing.

And He is Our Father

NOT only is God the Creator and Father of the universe, He knows us each by name like doves for the sparrows, exactly because for they are sparrows. He cares for us because we are his children, made with him. The end of man, as the Catholicism clearly teaches, is to adore God and glorify him forever.

Show Us the Father

READ again John 14:8-14, and join with Philip in the prayer, -"Show us the Father." Jesus answered Philip, saying, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father through Jesus Christ, and only through Jesus Christ.

Jesus goes on to say to Philip, "If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it." The greatest need of our day and generation is a fresh understanding of God—his nature and his will. We can know him through Jesus Christ. And we come to know him through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Enoch walked with God. Abraham was the friend of God. David was a man after God's own heart. And Jesus came to perfectly reveal the Father. The determining factor in knowing God as Father is our willingness to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Belief in God Today

THE Bible is a Book for today—any day, every day. It reveals the purpose of creation, both of the universe and man himself. It reveals the loving concern of God for every soul. It portrays his forbearance and his mercy and his exceeding kindness.

SMALL TOWNS, U. S. A. Rural America Is on Threshold Of Many Revolutionary Changes

By EARLE HITCH
Released by WNU Features

(Editor's Note: First in a series of articles on the vital problems and opportunities of small towns and rural America.)

Almost like clicking a switch, rural America has been snapped into a new age. It is the era of big-scale, scientific agricultural production. Farming is undergoing revolutionary changes. As a consequence there is a shifting and shuffling in rural occupations. The new farming demands fewer workers. But it wants more mechanical skills, more capital and more business brains.

Industry is decentralizing. Branches of big plants are getting away from the congestion of cities. More small shops and mills are springing up in rural environments. This, too, is changing the character of rural life.

The inquiries and experiments have confirmed what civic leaders have been maintaining—that there are many ways in which the small community, probably to its own surprise, can provide what growing numbers of people want and cannot find elsewhere. That is, first of all, a pleasant place in which to work and live. The towns which realize this and act on the idea will be in favorable position.

SMALL TOWNS, U.S.A.

Rural America Is on Threshold Of Many Revolutionary Changes

By EARLE HITCH

(Editor's Note: This is a series of articles on the vital problems and opportunities of small towns and rural America.)

Almost like clicking a switch, rural America has been snapped into a new age. It is the era of big-scale, scientific agricultural production. Farming is undergoing revolutionary changes. As a consequence there is a shifting and shuffling of rural occupations. The new farming demands fewer workers. But it wants more mechanical skills, more capital and more business brains.

Branches of big plants are getting away from the congestion of cities. More small shops are getting away from the congestion of cities. This, too, is changing the character of rural life. As machines displace manpower, new rural occupations will have to be created. Other things will have to be done. The rural population losses are inevitable.

Hence the people who live in the country today need, and will have, a new kind of community. The new community must be more than a place for trade. It must be the civic center of the whole country round about, as much devoted to matters of health, recreation and social good, as to matters of business.

New Outlook Demanded.

To keep pace with these changing conditions, the small towns will have to get new shapes and new outlooks. They will have to adapt to the needs of their particular surroundings. They need re-designing to meet the new rural life that is developing.

The country itself is becoming "cittified." That is, country people are as city-conscious and as socially alert as city people. They have new expectations of their towns. Thus the towns must reconsider their reasons for being. The towns that recognize this will find ways for more community usefulness. Those that act boldly and with imagination are going to be heard from.

These are the conclusions of those who are watching the trends over

The new rural life that is developing the country itself is becoming "classier." That is, country people are as style conscious and as socially alert as city people. They have new expectations of their towns. Thus the towns must reconsider their reasons for being. The towns that recognize this will find ways for more community usefulness. Those that set boldly and with insight that set boldly and with insight are going to be heard from.

These are the conclusions of those who are watching the trends over rural America. That is why the years just ahead promise to be an era of activity in rural community planning.

For the small towns which beat themselves a bright and larger future is in prospect. Now, for the first time since the automobile and the smooth highway switched trade to the city, the rural communities have a chance to "come back." They need not be content with obsolescence. What they need is to come alive, to shake themselves and take hope.

That's the opinion of leaders in the rural life movement, among whom are Eugene Smathers, who has developed a model plan at Big Lick, Tenn.; Dr. Baker Brownell, who directed the Montana rural study for Rockefeller foundation; O. E. Baker, social scientist of University of Maryland, and Monsignor L. G. Ligutti, secretary of National Catholic Rural Life conference.

Pioneer in Program. Important pioneering has been done in rural community reorganization. The lead in actually demonstrating what can be done has been taken by the Catholic and Protestant churches, which have established missions for social work in several rural communities, and by the American Friends Service committee, which has community projects in Pennsylvania and South trains, most of them over the country generally are better than clinics, hospitals, health services, swimming pools, bath houses and the place of those that are being eliminated by farm machinery, and more opportunities for small farming on a family-scale basis.

Devises New Projects. Among the practical projects that have been devised are rural home-steads for industrial workers, other types of homesteads for young rural couples wishing to get land and make a start in small farming, new rural industries like seed testing, poultry killing, alfalfa and sweet potato dehydrating, mechanical repair and upkeep for farm machinery and electrical installations in rural homes, and various cooperative projects, like machinery pools, creameries, tanning and other processing enterprises.

To keep the rural economy stabilizing enterprises. To help the small families survive in the competition with big-scale farming, is a national policy to which congress has long been committed, and which is supported by churches, farm federations and political parties.

The farm is the seed bed of the rural life movement. From it come many of the men and women of tomorrow. The cities and towns have replaced themselves and are not doing so now.

The rural institutions that have been outmoded should have the attention of the whole rural community. Over the country generally, everything from churches to mercantile systems needs overhauling, and there should be considerable education about what a modern rural community should undertake to do for its people.

The idea that the small town has new and important functions should be planted at once in the communities that are determined to catch up with the trends, and should be emphasized by repetition until the citizens are convinced they should do something about it.

To get the rural community out of its obsolescence and persuade it to catch up with farming progress, the whole people, youth and adults, must be made to see community de-

Luncheon Salad. (Serves 6 to 8)

- 1 cup green beans, cooked or canned
- 1 cup carrot strips
- 1 cup celery strips
- 1/4 cup french dressing
- 2 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 head of lettuce
- 1 cup ham, cut in strips

Marinate green beans, carrots and celery for one hour. Slice hard-cooked eggs on bed of lettuce with vegetables. Sprinkle with slices of ham and serve.

Sauerkraut and Beet Salad. (Serves 4 to 5)

- 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 2 cups sauerkraut, chopped
- 1 cup beets, cooked and cubed
- Soak gelatin in cold water. Drain sauerkraut and save juice. Add enough water to make 1 1/2 cups. Heat and add to dissolved gelatin. Add sauerkraut and beets. Pour into molds. Chill until firm, then unmold on salad greens. Serve with mayonnaise.

Mixed Vegetable Salad. (Serves 4 to 5)

- 1 cup cooked peas
- 1 cup cauliflower, cooked
- 1 cup green beans, cooked
- 1/2 cup french dressing
- 2 to 3 lettuce cups
- 1/4 teaspoon anchovies

Marinate vegetables in french dressing. Toss in anchovies and mix lightly. Fill lettuce cups and garnish with radishes and spinach leaves, if desired.

Here are other vegetable salad combinations you'll find handy for quick reference these days:

- Shredded carrots, chopped celery, sliced apples and preserved ginger.

Navy to Close Historic Arms Dump

IONA ISLAND, N. Y. — After 47 years as a prime link in the chain of American sea defense, Iona island, nestled in the scenic land of Rip van Winkle, goes on the shelf. The navy has offered its ammunition dump on the island for construction, laboratory or institutional use.

The island's 123 acres do not permit further expansion and modern requirements in the handling of high explosives are difficult to maintain here, the navy explained in announcing the rental proposal.

The most stirring chapters in the little island's history were written during the two world wars, when the ammunition dump provided shells and other weapon fodder for navy vessels, merchant ships, overseas bases and shore stations.

SERMON: From the King James version of the Bible (Luke 22:14-17, 19): "And when the hour was come he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him. And he said unto them, 'Will desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer. For I say unto you, I will not eat hereof until I have fulfilled in the kingdom of God. And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, 'Take this, and divide it among yourselves. . . . And he took bread, and gave thanks, and broke it, and gave unto them, saying, 'This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me.'"

NOTICE

To Owners and Barbers of Dogs: 1947 dog license expires on Dec. 31, 1947. 1948 dog license fee is due Jan. 1, 1948.

All dogs must be licensed and when at large must wear metal tag issued. If the tag is not worn the dog is subject to seizure and if not redeemed may be sold or destroyed. Puppies running at large or upon becoming six months of age must be licensed also.

Dog license must be obtained from the clerk of the town or city in which the dog is harbored or kept, or if in the counties of Westchester or Nassau, from the clerk of the incorporated village.

Male Dog $2.00
Female Dog 3.25
Spayed Female Dog 2.25
Redemption Fee on Seized Dog 2.00

Licenses cannot be issued for less than the above fees.

The owner or barbers of a dog who neglects or refuses to obtain a license for the dog as required by law, incurs a penalty of $10, and costs.

The enumerators of towns and the police departments of cities and villages issuing dog licenses are required to prepare in the month of January of each year a list of dog owners. The omission of the name of an owner from such list does not relieve the owner from obtaining a license.

replacement but their purpose in the past has been a by-product of the farms and raising statistics and their winter hunting wild boars.

Now the dog food producers face the necessity within a few years of horses or shift to some other type economically. Right now horse meat costs more than those steaks did during the depression.

Replacement of the horse by the tractor as a source of farm power and failure to raise milk replacements are the two dominant factors in the decreasing draft horse population, according to Hyer's survey. Farm horse population in New York State dropped nearly one-third in the 15-year period 1930 to 1945, being listed at 228,724 in 1945, compared with 319,431 in 1930. The decrease in eight western New York counties was nearly proportional dropping from 82,427 horses in 1930 to 44,361 in 1945.

Erie county, although less rural than the other seven counties in the Eighth Judicial District as it takes in the Buffalo metropolitan area, has the most horses, listed at 8,807 in 1945.

Although the trend was not statewide, many Western New York counties reflected the depression by increasing their horse population between 1930 and 1945.

In 1910, when the "horseless carriage" first began to become a factor, the state's horse population reached its highest figure of 341,000, or more than double the present figure.

A new community springing up on eastern Long Island, on the grounds of a military recruiting camp that has been in the area, heralds the dawn of a new age. Already about half of its estimated 2,000 members, including scientists and co-workers, are being telephoned in reconstructed buildings of Camp Upton, pending the erection of modern homes and apartments.

It is the Brookhaven National Laboratory, operated in cooperation with the Associated Universities, Inc., one of three such communities in the United States devoted to researching into atomic research into the peacetime uses of which the British government will take place. This and sites of the national buildings will be completed next summer.

From the concrete-floored plant which will house the Institute that will serve studies in the fields of medicine, physics, biology, chemistry and engineering.

While research into the possibilities of atomic energy for peacetime development is the primary objective, the project is also designed to promote knowledge of nuclear science among scientific student groups and to promote a greater understanding by the public of this new force which may be destined to change our entire way of life in the future.

Most of the findings, it is said, will become public property, but that part of the work involving our country's military security will be checked by secrecy in laboratories enclosed in stockades and kept under continuous guard.

As a long term project, the organization of Brookhaven proceeds carefully. A large section of Camp Upton is being systematically and economically turned into a tidy, attractive village which suggests a college campus rather

Vets Happy

America has not forgotten the hospitalized veterans in view of the noble interest held by the nation's citizens everywhere, who are being belatedly into existence and organized on a nationwide basis, the Hospitalized Veterans Foundation, Inc.

It is a non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political organization, born in a spirit of thankfulness and appreciation for the service rendered by these men and women for whom the war will never end.

Specifically, the Hospitalized Veterans Foundation will furnish—

Individual bedside radio receiving sets of types best suited to the patients' needs;

Special network and transmitting sets, their accessories and permanent set-up service;

Telephone sets, phonographs and record-playing equipment in most homes;

Covering projects for book reading by servicemen before, via phonograph recording television, at times which may be received from various hospitals;

Traveling theatrical units to tour the camps after the various USO-Camp Show organization is disbanded on December 31.

The Foundation is to aid hundreds of hospitalized veterans in the United States and in foreign countries, which have been treated so far in 1947 more than 800,000 veterans—about 15,000 of these permanent or semi-permanent.

It was incorporated early in 1947 by a group of prominent businessmen, industrialists, educators, veterans' leaders and top personalities of stage, screen and radio. The result is a balanced, efficient organization.

Local chapters of the Foundation have already been established in a dozen major states from New York to California. Other state chapters will be formed as suitable outstanding volunteer personnel can be brought together.

Nobody but the hospitalized veterans benefit in any way from the Foundation activities. No officer, director or member receives compensation for his work. These public-spirited men and women contribute generously of time and effort to provide greater comfort and happier hours for the nation's living martyrs.

Every contribution, donation and gift is deposited in the credit of the Foundation in the American National Bank & Trust Co., 23 North La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill.

Radio receiving sets and other entertainment equipment being supplied in 125,000 per cent percentage since by the Hospitalized Veterans Foundation must meet the most rigid specifications.

Moreover, such equipment is purchased by the Foundation at approximately 50 per cent less than the retail price. Consequently the Hospitalized Veterans Foundation program accomplishes much more than through any other channel.

As an example a $15 contribution will provide a handsome hospital bedside radio set especially suited to the needs of a hospitalized veteran with a high-quality receiver which would retail at about $45.

Attention is the word in making selections of the radios and other equipment. Chaplains, special service officers and welfare directors of the nation's 145 veterans' hospitals and homes are invariably consulted.

SAMMY KAYE, internationally favored bandmaster of "Spring and Sway" fame, who has accepted presidency of the Hospitalized Veterans Foundation. Aided by public contributions, the Foundation supplies radios and other entertainment equipment to the nation's 145,000 permanent patients in GI hospitals.

Hospitalized Heroes Win Hollywood Stars' Help

As usual stars of the entertainment world are in the forefront of those answering the challenge to service rendered by the Hospitalized Veterans Foundation, which seeks to bring happiness to servicemen languishing in hospitals.

"Every American should respond sympathetically to this movement," cried Rudy Vallee, the popular Connecticut Yankee. "They should be proud that the Foundation's disbursement committee has assurance all times that the material is in the places where they are most largely needed to speed healing and bring cheer.

The chairman of the hospital receiving fund of the patients only $5 were supplied with radio receiving sets and most of them were of high quality.

Another chairman in a smaller veterans' home said: "We could use 100 pillow-type radios tomorrow."

All contributions are deposited in the credit of the Foundation in the American National Bank & Trust Co., 23 N. La Salle St., Chicago. Disbursements are made by the treasurer, but only on order of the executive committee.

and hospitalized veterans not only a measure of enjoyment, but a further conviction that they have not been forgotten by the country and the public for whom they made such great sacrifices.

Joseph M. Stack visited many hospitals throughout the country last year as commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He reports:

"The desirability of some arrangement to bring to hospitalized veterans more contact with the outside world has been clearly indicated. Benefits of pillow type radio sets will prove invaluable. I'm happy to join this humanitarian project. Hold fast, disabled veterans everywhere—help is on the way!"

At a recent meeting of Whitesville residents, it was decided to form a new library association and continue the library. Glenn A. Mapee was named president of the library board.

Dana C. Peck, who has operated a billiard parlor at Alfred for the past 18 years, has purchased the hardware block of D. S. Burdick, that village, and will move there by January 1.
