ANGELICA CONSERVATION CLUB

School days, school days, you good old school days, and get you scholars will have to grow into nearly middle age before you realize the happiest and most care free times of your life are your school days, and you will say that's right. But it's up to you to try to make it that way. Remember, it isn't the school, it's you. The secret of receiving the most benefit of the twelve years of school life at your good Angelica Central School is to attend everyday you possibly can, do not be tardy. Be sure you understand every class subject every day. If you do not understand some points ask the teacher to explain. Do this while it is fresh in your mind. Remember, it isn't the teacher, it's you. School days are not horsefairs if you attend regularly, and take it serious, making it a regular business proposition. The more you get out of school life the more it is going to benefit you in the future. It's up to you to put the show. It isn't the school, it's you.

Years ago our school gave a jack-knife to the boy and a hair ribbon or something to the girl who had perfect attendance for the school year.

POSTING OF LAND IS NOW IN ORDER RULES ARE SIMPLE

The means for posting land is at hand. In the belief that some of the more common questions pertaining to property provisions will be of interest to owners, sportsmen and the general public, the following detailed draft of the law on the subject is herewith printed.

In this section, posting serves to a considerable extent as a curb on any person frequenting farms or horse lands. Land owners find that this at least protects them in the event they must act against an intruder.

The trespassing provision in the fullest.

Provisions for posting under Section 363 of the New York State Conservation Law follow:

"Notices not less than 11 inches square shall be conspicuously posted in a park, private lands or game refuge not more than 40 rods apart close to the boundary thereof. At least one notice shall be posted on each side of such land, park or game refuge and one at each corner thereof, provided said corner can be reasonably ascertained.

"Such notices shall bear the name and address of the person posting and a conspicuous statement covering an area of not less than 80 square inches warning all persons against hunting, fishing or trapping or

"I still remember the afternoon when I was a child," said the old man, "and the other day I was in the city of 'New York' again. Even though the old music could remember the day when she had heard Louis play. It was the day she had had her first taste of music. Even then she had known that this day would be the day for which she had waited. But she would wait no longer—she remembered how she had gone to their home after church. It was the first summer she stayed in the city to work at Hull house."

At the social center she had met Eleanor, Louis's sister. They were such a charming family, the Alvans. Mother and father, first generation immigrants from Italy, and the children were American as only the children of immigrants can rejoice in the land of the free.

As she slipped into her coat to leave Carnegie hall, Marya remembered that other day. She had taken the train to Kedzie avenue, and then followed the long, narrow street to the south side. They had invited her for dinner, but they had asked her to bring her music so that she might sing for them.

When she arrived, dinner was ready. They had been to church early so that they would have all in readiness for her visit. Albert, Mr. Alvano—was not home. Albert frequently had to be on the road. In fact, the only time she could remember having seen Albert was at the concert later. But Carmen and Eleanor and Louis were there. And, of course, Mrs. Albert was there. Talking, talking and chattering all the time, and yet accomplishing all the things necessary on the part of a perfect hostess.

What a jolly, wonderful dinner it had been. They ate spaghetti and artichokes. She especially remembered the artichokes, because it was would anyone sing when such genius was present. Louis had come over to her, and sat casually on the arm of the chair.

"Did you like my playing, Miss Ames?" he asked politely.

"You have a great talent, Louis," she replied evenly and quietly, but her heart was racing as rapidly as the tempo of the tune he had just played. The group soon surrounded her, and they joined in the first dances of far-off lands which they performed with such unalloyed joy and excitement.

When she left, Louis volunteered to walk with her to the street car. At the door she paused to thank Adele for the lovely day. Smiling warmly at Louis, she told him nothing. "This young man is a great artist; he must be encouraged."

But Mrs. Alvano only laughed, and made some remark about Eleanor, not being the one with the talent. As they walked to the car lot, they exchanged but a few brief sentences, but a tacit understanding was established. She had thought Louis, but oh, he is an artist!" and the other thought, "And I love him."

The fiddle strings danced at the hands of Louis. The hands of a youth, but they were the hands of a whole people, singing their song down through the years. The sunlight seemed to like Louis, and the critics said he was a lad "of some promise." But they had missed the magic.

After the concert, Marya began to see Louis more frequently. They would take long walks through the parks on the south side, their hands clasped together. Would Louis ever speak to her of love, she wondered. And Louis, never seeming to emerge from his shyness, talked of music, and life, but never those words she longed to hear. Then the war came, and Louis was gone!

Marya joined the Red Cross program and worked in several of the large social centers in New York.

What a jolly, wonderful dinner it had been. They ate spaghetti and artichokes. She especially remembered the artichokes, because it was the first time she had eaten them. They had to show her how to pull out the little spines and slide the soft, pulpy, white meat off between your teeth. And they had served chestnuts for dessert.

Then Adele—that was Mrs. Alvano—was saying, "And now, Miss Ames... now, you sing for us!"

Marya had sung for them, had dinner notwithstanding. She sang beautiful melodies from the operas of their beloved Italy, songs of religion, love songs... all the songs in that brief case. Mrs. Albert had accompanied her and sang with her. They all sang.

Then a group of noisy young people from the settlement house clubs joined them. Carmen played the cello, Eleanor sang, Marya sang again, and they finally coaxed Louis to play the violin. Louis was twenty, just Marya's age, but he was so shy. Louis played for them, resting his round, somewhat boyish face on the chin rest of the instrument. His black, sparkling eyes danced with the music as the intricate strings became the medium of magic. His eyes danced like the tarantelle that he played. And all the music of the ages poured from those strings.

Marya sensed that this was the real Louis. Louis with the laughing black eyes and the tight ringlets of raven hair. When Louis stopped playing, the others were noisy again, but Marya sat quietly in the chair, contemplating the magic artistry of Early that spring, there was a concert at the social center with the young artists accompanying the women's symphony accompaniment in Adela's illegible hand. The concert was given by the young artists. Naturally, Marya was there—even Albert, who seemed to have grown up. She sang quite a bit for the service-where she lived. NEW SUPPORT POTATO PRICE IS ANNOUNCED

The United States Department of Agriculture has announced the price support schedule for the 1944 crop of potatoes as follows:

Domestic production	$2.75
Foreign production	2.50
Stocks	2.30
October	2.10
November	2.00
December	1.90
January	1.80
February	1.70

These prices are for the 100 pounds of U.S. No. 1 grade potatoes packed in 50-pound bags, mounted and loaded 2500 through carrie in car lots.

Basic support prices for No. 1 are 18 and No. 2 grade, 17 1/2 cents per cwt. of these potatoes are 40 per cent of those shown. If packed and graded as shown, the No. 1 grade potatoes are eligible to sell potatoes to the Department of Agriculture under the price support program under the price support program under the price support program.

Nearly all of the surplus potatoes are being converted to potato meal and shipped to Europe under the European Recovery Program, and it is expected that if it becomes necessary to purchase potatoes in Allegany county they will be handled in the same way.

High Repair Cost Boost Car Insurance Fancy Fenders and

Fancy fenders, elaborate radiator grills and the elimination of running boards are listed among the factors making for higher repair bills in today's motor cars—and these items are costing up your insurance rates, an analysis made by the National Association of Insurance Agents, property insurance trade organization indicates.

Factors underlying today's increased automobile bodily injury and property damage insurance rates are largely to be found in greater accident and claim frequency, and the greater the costs of such claims.

Listed as accident factors are:

1. Increasing car use: Gasoline consumption is at an all-time peak indicating that the average car is being driven faster and further.
2. Old, unsafe cars on the road: Registrations are close to 1941's record high and millions of vehicles are operated that would normally be junked. A check of 2,000,000 cars shows that one-third have obvious and dangerous mechanical defects.
3. Recklessness: Since lifting of

Hybrid Seed Corn Program

New York farmers should expect a variation in quality throughout the year.

The State Department of Agriculture has issued the following information: "The hybrid seed corn program is continuing public interest in increasing yields during recent years."

Hybrid varieties for grain, silage and fodder were planted to the extent of the state's 50,000 acre acreage this year, compared to 40 per cent of a total of 22,500 acres in 1943.

Vets' Service News

The New York State Institute of Applied Arts and Sciences at Utica announces that it has ten vacancies in the Textile Technology Division and four vacancies in its Electrical Division. The next registration date for these courses is October 4.

The next school for prospective Dairy Herd Improvement Association Supervisors will be held September 7-18 at the Department of Animal Husbandry, New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University, Ithaca. Registrations will take place at 9:00 a. m., Tuesday, September 7, in the Dairy Records Office in the Animal Husbandry Building.

Public Law 599, 80th Congress, extended until February 2, 1950, the deadline for making application for mustering out pay by members of the Armed Forces who were discharged or relieved from active service under honorable conditions on or after December 7, 1941, but before February 3, 1944, if otherwise eligible.

Former army enlisted men who fall into this category desiring to apply for mustering out payment may do so by letter, including their service record card.

Hints On Grain Storage

One method of protection of stored grains against weevil is outlined by V. C. Stevenson, county agricultural agent. He says that DDT does the trick, also that clean DDT help. He outlines the procedure as follows:

Spray floors and walls of bins thoroughly with a DDT solution, and be sure it gets into all cracks and crevices.

The one pound of 50 per cent DDT powder to 20 gallons of water or one gallon of 25 per cent DDT emulsion to ten gallons of water. It is important to sweep out bins before spraying. Solution can also be applied with a broom.

Residue from DDT should not affect the grain for feeding or milling purposes.

Grain carried over the summer is likely to be infested with weevils. Fumigation will protect it.

Grain being stored for seed may be protected by mixing one or two teaspoons of five per cent DDT dust per bushel. Do not use for feed or food.

Prices Supports Are Kept in New Farm Law

The new law has a new method of figuring parity prices. The parity formula attempts to define the buying power of farm products during a period of fair farm prices. Then it attempts to insure the farmer the same buying power today. (As an instance, if two bushels of wheat, in a given period, bought a pair of shoes, today's price for wheat would be set so that two bushels would be sufficient to buy a pair of shoes, although in dollars the price is twice as high. More than 900 items the farmer buys are used in determining the price he should receive for produce he sells.)

The new parity will be based on prices in the 1910-14 period. But in addition it will attempt to take into consideration changes that have taken place in farming practices and demand for farm products since then. For instance, it costs less to produce grain today than it did in 1910-14 because grain planting and harvesting machines have,

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS U. S.-Russia Events Reach Climax; Moscow Parley Continues Uneasily; Soviets Sever Consular Relations

By Bill Schoutzen, WNCU Staff Writer

Discussion

THE AX WAS THERE

RUSSIANS: Climactic

Virtually every avenue of public thought in the U. S. was teeming with Russian shadows of Russians and a few Red convertibles. There was a feeling, however, that the international commotion had reached its climax and was about to subside. Early be-

Kasenkina, the U. S. state department pointed out as it ordered him out of the country. It was a sensational turn of events. In a note to the Soviet embassy the state department asserted that Lomakin had, in effect, misled his own government with regard to the Kasenkina case so that the protests which the Soviets made to the U. S. were "based on misinformation."

In addition, the note charged that the consular general had "hindered the investigation of the competent police officials by refusing to all-edly them to interview Mrs. Kasenkina" while she was under control of the Soviet consul.

Then, even as Lomakin was packing his bags and preparing to leave the country, Russia countered sharply by formally severing consular relations with the U. S. and repeating its accusations of bad faith.

That seemed to prove that Lomakin's actions in the Kasenkina affair were not so much the expression of his individual initiative as they were a direct reflection of Kremlin policy.

However, no one was worrying too much about the breaking off of consular relations. The move did not mean that diplomatic relations were severed.

Soviet consular activities in the U. S. were limited to arranging for mutual trade and travel between the two nations. Since there is practically no trade or travel exchange taking place, the presence or ab-

Washington Digest Man Is Riding Life Cycle Toward His Destruction

By BAUKHAGE

WASHINGTON—Today we have two visitors whom I met recently at the Smithsonian Institution. Mr. Neanderthaler (his husband wasn't available) and Mr. Cro-Magnon. They have come a long way. Neanderthalers lived about 25,000 years ago—but what's a few thousand years among friends—or relatives? I doubt that the Neanderthalers are relatives of ours—and I'm not sorry.

They lived early in the Old Stone Age, and died without leaving any known heirs, assigns or descendants—which may be just as well for the rest of us who might have inherited some of their characteristics. They were sub-human—stocky folk—but they couldn't take it. They died out.

New Mr. Cro-Magnon was a different proposition. He was a superior human and I wish he were a relative because he was really superior to us—better body, better brain. If he'd only lasted, he'd have done for us! He might have saved us. He may still.

I've been reading two new books—"Our Plundered Planet," by Fairfield Osborne and "Road to Survival," by William Vogt.

Our friend Neanderthaler probably managed to stick around 250,000 years or so before his environment or his neighbors finished him off.

Wheat Yield Boosted Through Fertilization

Gains in Indiana Tests Exceed Seven Bushels

Fertilizing wheat paid dividends in crop increases averaging seven to nine and one-half bushels per acre, Purdue university research men revealed in announcing results of 1947 studies conducted in 15 Indiana counties.

Wheat yields increased seven bushels per acre when fertilizer applications averaged from 150 to 200 pounds per acre. When the plant food treatment was boosted to 300 to 400 pounds per acre, average production gains of nine and one-half bushels were obtained.

Demonstrations with wheat started on various soil types last fall showed somewhat similar results, according to the Purdue research men. When 165 pounds of 0-12-12 was applied on six southern Indiana upland soils, increases of five bushels per acre resulted. When the application was doubled, yield increases averaged seven bushels per acre.

"Applications of 300 to 250 pounds of 3-12-12 are being recommended for wheat on practically all upland calumnies. Any one or all of those C and D. Any one or all of those Diners are apt to be rather well balanced to give the essential food elements, but frequently the cause of many ills is the lack of good lighter meals such as lunches or suppers. Some people skip lunch, others nibble at little or nothing, while some eat something that satisfies hunger without regard to satisfying bodily needs.

RUSSIAN WALK LEAVES THREE ON BASE . . . This stern-changed threesome used to be a foursome. Together, the quartet—representing the Big Four nations—would stand guard happily at the Berlin Kommandatura, seat of the Allied governing body in Berlin. But the disarmed Russians walked out of the council, took their sentry with them and said they weren't coming back. So that left the (left to right) British, American and French representatives in charge.

Keep your refrigerator well stocked with fruits and vegetables, so that you always can have a salad together. Serve this with sandwiches if you're hungry or gingerbread if you want a kind of bread and dessert together. Add to this a nourishing beverage and you'll have a lunch that satisfies hunger as well as dietary needs. Doesn't take much longer to fix than a snack!

Soups and juices are good to have on hand because they satisfy vital and mineral requirements. Plan, however, to serve it along with them or a nourishing milk drink or dessert.

Give Old Foods New Flavor Tricks
Meat loaf will take on an inviting flavor if you fold in one-half cup of grated parmesan cheese into the mixture before baking it.
Chopped ham is delicious to add to your favorite plain or cheese soufflé, fudge, omelet or scrambled eggs.
Pork sausage will have a special appeal when you prepare with macaroni and a chili-flavored tomato sauce.

A simple but easy dessert for one of those light lunches includes two glasses of milk with a very light and delicious gingerbread. Mixing gingerbread is an easy way to work iron into the diet by means of the molasses.

1 Medium liver sausage mixed with finely chopped, hard-cooked egg, moistened with cream and seasoned with salt and pepper.
1 Cream butter mixed with cream, vanilla and powdered sugar.
1 Ground leftover meat mixed with ground raw carrot, moistened with mayonnaise and seasoned with pepper and onion juice.

Very Best Gingerbread
(Serves 16)
1 cup butter or shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup pure, dark molasses
1 cup hot water
Cream shortening and sugar. Add beaten egg. Measure and sift dry ingredients. Combine molasses and hot water. Add dry ingredients to mixture alternately with liquid, a small amount at a time, and beat thoroughly until smooth. Bake in a paper-lined pan (8 x 2 1/2 inch) in a moderate (350 degree) oven for 15 minutes.

Use baking pickles in a crutch. Chutney should be removed as it gets done. Sausage causes spoilage.
Spiced beef patties are delicious spread with chopped green pepper, served with a tomato sauce whenever they are browned golden and crisp.
In this new trick the next time you serve the old favorite, spare-rib with sauerkraut: Place the sauerkraut on one rack of ribs, season with caraway seed and top with another rack of ribs. Braise and bake.

the winter here by the heating plant thoroughly inspected and reoilined.

Mr. Ryan states that an inspection of heating plants at this time may reveal the need for replacing parts which have become worn or defective. He adds that if the inspection is left until cold weather it will be impossible to make repairs.

Director Ryan says the following items should be kept in mind when planning the heating plant in good condition:

1. All chimneys should be cleaned out a year and inspected for cracked flues. Check heat and smoke pipes for rust and make certain that all joints fit tightly.
2. Check the flow pit for a tight seal to prevent gas from escaping.
3. Proper clearances for all parts of the heating system and the floor joists and heaters on substantial bases away from walls.
4. If an oil burner is used, have the equipment cleaned and overhauled before using this fuel.

Uniform Price of $5.25 Is Forecast For August

Majority of Voters Favor Change in Electoral System

Most voters favor a change in the American system of electing presidents, according to George Gallup, Director, Institute of Public Opinion, Princeton.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.'s proposal for changing the method of counting electoral votes in presidential elections has the support of nearly six out of every ten voters polled by the institute.

Under the present system, the candidate who receives a plurality of the votes in any state wins all its electoral votes. At the instigation of Senator Lodge, the G.O.P. platform this year puts the party on record as favoring some kind of change.

The Lodge proposal is that the electoral votes of each state be divided among the candidates in proportion to the popular vote they receive in the state.

To test voter sentiment on the Lodge bill, the institute asked voters this question:

"Today, the presidential candidate who gets the most popular votes in a state takes all the electoral votes of that state. Do you think this should or should not be changed so that each of the candidates would receive the same proportion of electoral votes that he gets in the popular vote?"

The answers were: 58 per cent in favor of changing, 15 per cent opposed to changing and 27 per cent no opinion.

President Roosevelt, under the State Health Commissioner Urges Inoculation of Children

...underlying today's... Partly, bodily injury... and property damage insurance rates... are largely to be found in greater... accident and claim frequency, and... the greater the costs of such claims.

Labeled as accident factors are:

1. Increasing car use: Gasoline consumption is at an all-time peak, and it is estimated that the average car is being driven faster and further.
2. Old, unsafe cars on the road: Registrations are close to 1941's record high and millions of vehicles are operated that would normally have been junked. A check of 2,000,000 cars shows that one-third have obvious and dangerous mechanical defects.
3. Recklessness: Since lifting of wartime speed restrictions, average speeds have increased because many drivers of older cars try to match the pace set by newer vehicles.
4. Lack of road repair and construction: Layoff in road building, plus shortages of manpower and materials, left many highways in poorer condition and slowed plans to build new and wider highways.

Records show that it costs 30 per cent more to settle bodily injury claims and 100 per cent more to settle property damage claims than in 1941.

Ever Been Hit By Lightning?

Chief among cost factors are:

1. Larger Claims: Increased cost in medical and surgical care.
2. Higher Verdicts: Court verdicts show a sharp upward trend.
3. Rising Prices: Increased cost of labor and materials.
4. New Design: Fenders include headlights, tail-lights and a substantial portion of the body. Fancy grill work and elimination of running boards all make for higher repair bills.

Automobile accidents can be reduced. The extent to which they are reduced will largely determine the trend of future rate divisions because of the fact that insurance rates are based upon claim payments.

The control of auto insurance rates rests with the car owners themselves.

...will take place at 2:00 p. m. on... (Oct. 9, September 7, in the... Records Office in the Alumni... building.

Department of Agriculture officials approved in the closing hours of Congress, moves toward a philosophy of plenty. The law, known as the Agricultural Act of 1946, works this way:

Veterans who were residents of New York State at the time of their enlistment or induction should give their letters to the New York State Finance Office, U. S. Army, Army Base, Brooklyn, New York.

The Veterans Administration announces that it has immediate openings for 100 young doctors interested in taking residency training in psychiatry or neurology of both. In general, the residencies cover a three-year program of specialty training, although one and two-year programs also are available. Interested doctors may obtain complete information by writing the Chief Medical Director, Veterans Administration, Washington, D. C.

After TB Is Cured

It's welcome news when the doctor tells the patient in a tuberculosis sanatorium or hospital that he is well enough to go home. It means that the patient can rejoin his family and friends, returning to home life and to useful citizenship in his community. That patient also has a justified sense of satisfaction because he was successful in his battle against the tuberculosis.

Majority of Voters Favor Change In Electoral System

Most voters favor a change in the present method of electing presidential electors, according to a Gallup Poll, conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. announced that the method of electing electors will be changed by a vote of 60 to 30 in the Senate.

Under the present system, each state elects a certain number of electors, according to its population.

The number of electors in each state is determined by the number of its representatives in the House of Representatives.

The vote will be cast on the 15th of December.

The change proposed is that the electoral college will be abolished and the electors will be chosen by the popular vote in each state.

Ever Seen Hit By Lightning?

Many persons have what appears to be an unreasonable fear of lightning and lightning. It may comfort them to know that lightning is only rain, and that sometimes it will or may for many persons than does lightning.

So says Prof. A. M. Goodson, of the agricultural engineering department at Cornell, who cites a case where a man who had been struck by lightning was so terrified that he would not go to work for a year.

Under the present system, the candidate who receives the most popular votes in a state takes all the electoral votes of that state. Do you think this should or should not be changed so that each of the candidates would receive the same proportion of electoral votes that he gets in the popular vote?"

The answers were: 55 per cent in favor of changing, 15 per cent opposed to changing and 27 per cent no opinion.

President Roosevelt, under the State Health Commissioner Urges Isolation of Children

With the reopening of school next week the state health commissioner urges parents to make sure their children are protected against diphtheria and scarlet fever.

The child who is entering school for the first time should receive a single booster inoculation of diphtheria toxin. If, however, he has not previously received two doses of toxin, which the State Department of Health recommends in infancy, these should be given at the time instead of the single booster inoculation.

A total of 82 cases of diphtheria has been reported to the department this far this year.

It is of equal importance for protection against smallpox at the time he first enters school, whether he has had a previous successful vaccination or not.

The New York State Police announces an open competitive examination for State Troopers which will be held at Albany, Sing Sing, Buffalo, Malone, Syracuse, White Plains, New York city and at such other places as may be designated, Wednesday, September 15. For applications and complete information returns should be written to the Division of State Police at the State Capitol, Albany, N. Y.

Chief among such factors are: a longer change interval and a higher voltage. Chief engineers show a sharp upward trend in the use of higher voltages, increasing use of labor and materials.

Automobile accidents can be reduced. The answer to which they are reduced with largely determine the trend of future rate decisions because of the fact that insurance rates are based upon claim payments.

The control of auto insurance rates rests with the car owners themselves.

Ever Been Hit By Lightning?

Many persons have what appears to be an uncontrollable fear of thunder and lightning. It was manifested in a case that thunder is only noise, and that automobiles kill or injure far more persons than does lightning.

So says Prof. A. M. Goodman of the agricultural engineering department at Cornell, who also a few simple things to keep in mind during a thunder shower:

Do not go out or stay out if you can avoid it. Stay inside where it is dry.

If you are in a house, keep away from the chimney or fireplace, and also from the stove and other large metal objects.

"If you have a choice of buildings to which to take shelter, probably the safety from lightning comes in about the following order: (1) large metal frame building, (2) house or barn with a good lightning rod system, (3) large unrooded or unprotected buildings, and (4) small unprotected buildings.

"If you are unable to get to cover," says Goodman, "avoid standing under isolated trees, in small sheds in exposed locations, near wire fences, or on top of a hill. A cave or overhanging cliff offers good protection from lightning as well as from rain. If you must seek shelter under trees, go into a dense woods or into a large grove of trees, preferably on low ground."

U. S.-Russia Events Reach Climax; Moscow Parley Continues Uneasily; Soviets Sever Consular Relations

By Bill Schoenberg, WNDU Staff Writer

THE AX WAS THERE

RUSSIANS: Climactic

Wholly every avenue of public thought in the U. S. was leaning with Russia, shadow of Russia and a few Red convertibles. There was a feeling, however, that the international commission had reached its climax and was ready to start subsiding, partly because public interest, flagellated, wouldn't stand the stress and strain of it all much longer.

To Escape

Long weeks and ahead-faced in her hospital bed in New York, Mrs. Olyana Kamenka finally got around to telling the story of why she leaped from the third-story window of the Soviet consulate.

Man Is Riding Life Cycle Toward His Destruction

By BAIRSHAGE

WASHINGTON—Today we have two visitors whom I met recently at the Smithsonian Institution. Mrs. Neanderthaler Oberhausen wasn't available, but her husband was. They have come a long way—30,000 years ago—that's what a row of teeth among friends—or relatives? I doubt that the Neanderthaler are relatives of ours—and I'm not sure.

They lived early in the Old Stone Age, and died without leaving any— which may be just as well for the sake of their character. They were sub-human—slimy, bloated, but they couldn't take it. They died.

New Mr. Cro-Magnon was a different proposition. He was a better hunter and I wish he became so because he was really superior to better brain. He'd only learned what a career he would have had in Hollywood and what he might have done for us! He might have saved us. He may still.

I've been reading two new books—"Our Plundered Planet" by Fairfield Osborne and "Road to Survival" by William Vogt.

Our friend Neanderthaler probably managed to stick around 100,000 years or so before his environment or his neighbors finished him off.

Today we are rapidly changing our environment, and unless we cease destroying our sources of food and shelter, we shall soon destroy ourselves, as our sub-human friend was destroyed.

We know that there are two things which chiefly distinguish man from

Wheat Yield Boosted Through Fertilization

Gains in Indiana Tests Exceed Seven Bushels

Fertilizing wheat paid dividends in crop increases averaging seven to nine and one-half bushels per acre, Purdue University research men revealed in summarizing results of 1947 studies conducted in 12 Indiana counties.

Wheat yields increased seven bushels per acre when fertilizer applications averaged from 125 to 210 pounds per acre. When the 12-12-12 food treatment was boosted to 300 to 400 pounds per acre, average production gains of nine and one-half bushels were obtained.

Demonstrations with wheat started on various soils types in 1947 fall showed somewhat similar results, according to the Purdue research men.

When 120 pounds of 0-12-12 was applied on six southern Indiana upland soils, increases of five bushels per acre resulted. When the application was doubled, yield increases averaged seven bushels per acre.

"Applications of 300 to 350 pounds of 12-12-12 are being recommended for wheat on practically all upland silt or clay loam soils and for sandy loams," says a statement by the Purdue agronomy department. "If the 12-12-12 cannot be obtained, then 2-12-6 is a good substitute for the wheat crop itself.

The additional potash in the 12-12-12, however, is especially important for the clover and corn crops following the small grain."

It couldn't be called schismatic; it was thoroughly democratic. In such a way delegates in the first assembly of the World Council of Churches might have assessed the first two addresses which of them presented the historic sessions in Amsterdam.

American farmers will have more trees to plant next year than ever before in our history.

Internal Parasites Loot

Few animals ever dream of committing a 12 million dollar robbery. But that's the amount of internal parasites steal from the U.S. livestock industry every year.

Spoilage of Stored Grain

Grain can be stored almost indefinitely with little deterioration in farm-type bins — those that hold 1,000 to 2,000 bushels — if the bins are kept dry, cool, clean and free of insects, according to the USDA.

HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH IN POLITICS . . . New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey momentarily displaced the crown of state and campaign strategy with the news and aggravations of golf. The Republican candidate for the presidency is shown here making—or at least attempting—a long putt on the last green of the Albany country club. He soon will forsake the greens for the political rough when he starts the fall campaign that he hopes will win the presidential election for him.

OF THESE WE SING . . . Far from the terrors and persecutions of Soviet Russian enemies, sons and daughters of anti-Soviet Russian families sing a loud and clear anthem of liberty at the annual children's festival held at Tosa farm, the Tolstoy foundation refuge for White Russians in Rockland county, N. Y. It was at this farm that Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina first sought refuge from the Soviets.

Nutritious and Boring

ARE THE LIGHT MEALS you serve always nutritious? Or are they just empty calories? You know together for the sake of giving calories to your family, even though the foods are not particularly abundant in health-giving elements such as protein, vitamins and minerals. You're guaranteed to feel better, work better and, yes, even play better if you're getting the right kind of food. Nutritious meals, no matter whether they are small or large, are bound to pay off big dividends. Just how, you ask? Well, for one thing, you won't get tired so quickly, and there will be sparkle in your eyes and smiles and a general glow of health about you. Your scratches and cuts, for example, will heal more readily if you're getting vitamin C in ample quantities. That dragged-out feeling may come from lack of the B complex vitamins which guard general well being, or it may come from lack of iron in the blood which helps carry oxygen we breathe to all parts of the body.

If you're troubled with night blindness, poor appetite, and get colds and infections readily, you're apt to be getting less than your share of vitamin A.

When teeth are in poor condition it would be wise to check on your calcium, phosphorous and vitamins C and D. Any one or all of these may be responsible.

eyes and smiles and a general glow of health about you. Your complexion improves, you feel better, you eat and drink. For example, you'll feel more healthy if you're getting your vitamins C in ample quantities.

That draggy lack of pep, feeling only some from lack of the B complex vitamins which guard general well-being, or a weariness from lack of iron in the blood which holds tight to oxygen we breathe in the parts of the body.

If you're troubled with night blindness, poor appetite, and get colds and infections readily, you're apt to be getting less than your share of vitamin A.

When teeth are in poor condition it would be wise to check on your sodium, phosphorous and vitamins C and D. Any one or all of these may be responsible.

Dinners are apt to be rather well balanced to give the essential food elements, but frequently the same of every day is the lack of good lighter meals such as lunches or suppers. Some people skip lunch, others nibble at little or nothing, while some eat something that satisfies hunger without regard to satisfying bodily needs.

Keep your refrigerator well stocked with fruits and vegetables so that you always can toss a salad together. Serve this with sandwiches if you're hungry or gingerbread if you want a kind of bread and dessert together. Add to this a nourishing beverage and you'll have a lunch that satisfies hunger as well as dietary needs. Doesn't take much longer to fix than a snack!

Soups and juices are good to have on hand because they satisfy vitamin and mineral requirements. Plan, however, to serve a salad with them or a nourishing milk drink or dessert.

CHOOSE FROM AMONG these recipes for those light lunches or suppers. Foods contained in them are vitamin and mineral sources, but still will be found to be very appetizing.

1. Chicken salad with orange and grapefruit segments, served with lettuce dressing.

2. Orange and grapefruit sections with thick slices of banana, served with the following dressing: One cup mayonnaise, one-half cup orange juice and three tablespoons of lemon juice to serve four.

WHY THESE sandwich combinations are a means of varying the menu.

Old English cheese or smoked salmon cheese with lettuce substituted for lettuce.

3. Egg salad with finely chopped pineapple and celery with enough salad dressing to moisten.

A simple but easy dessert for one of those light lunches includes tall glasses of milk with a very soft and delicious gingerbread. Serving gingerbread is an easy way to work iron into the diet by means of the molasses.

1. Mashed liver sausage mixed with finely chopped, hard-cooked eggs, moistened with cream and seasoned with salt and pepper.

LYNN SAYS:

Give Old Foods New Flavor Tricks

Meat loaf will take on an inviting flavor if you fold in one-half cup of grated parmesan cheese into the mixture before baking it. Chopped ham is delicious to add to your favorite plain or cream-sauce, fondue, omelet or scrambled eggs. Pork sausage will have a special appeal when you prepare with macaroni and a chili-flavored tomato

A simple but easy dessert for one of these light lunches includes one glass of milk with a very dash and delicious gingerbread. Having gingerbread is an easy way to work iron into the diet by means of the molasses.

Stuffed liver sausage mixed with finely chopped, hard-cooked potatoes with cream and sea-salt with salt and pepper.

Crust butter mixed with cream-cooked bacon or shredded carrots or honey or chow show.

Ground beef or meat mixed with ground raw carrot, moistened with onion juice and seasoned with salt, pepper and onion juice.

Very Best Gingerbread
(Serves 16)

- 1/2 cup butter or shortening
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup pure, dark molasses
- 1 cup hot water

Cream shortening and sugar. Add beaten egg. Measure and sift dry ingredients. Combine molasses and hot water. Add dry ingredients to mixture alternately with liquid. Beat in a paper-lined pan (9 x 9 x 2 inches) in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 20 minutes.

When brining pickles in a crock, the brine should be removed as it becomes sour causes spoiling. Spiced beef patties are delicious when made with chopped green pepper, served with a tomato sauce when they are browned golden and crisp.

For this new trick the next time you serve the old favorite, spareribs with sauerkraut. Place the sauerkraut on one rack of ribs, and rub with caraway seed and top with another rack of ribs. Drain and serve.
